

JOB OPENING

We're hiring!

ENVIRONMENTAL AND FOREST SCIENCES

Apply today

The School of Environmental and Forest Sciences (SEFS) at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time, nine-month Assistant Teaching Professor working in the field of environmental and forest sciences.

We seek a faculty member who will teach courses in our Environmental Science and Terrestrial Resource Management (ESRM) major, with a particular focus on our programs in Natural Resource and Environmental Management, Sustainable Forest Management, and Master of Forest Resources. The applicant will be able to develop courses in the applicant's area of expertise, potentially addressing needs in forest management, stewardship planning, resource measurement, and/or forest resource policy.

Anticipated start: September 2025

Priority given to applications received before October 31, 2024.

Open until filled.

LEARN MORE AND APPLY:
bit.ly/SEFSERM24

SCHOOL OF ENVIRONMENTAL & FOREST SCIENCES

UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON

College of the Environment